

FORMTECH INDUSTRIES TO RESTRUCTURE THROUGH PREARRANGED CHAPTER 11 FILING

Signs Asset Purchase Agreement to Sell Business to HHI Holdings, Leading North American Forging Company

HHI Holdings to Provide DIP Financing to Support Operations

ROYAL OAK, MICHIGAN, August 26, 2009 – FormTech Industries LLC (“FormTech”), a provider of forged metal components to the automotive light vehicle, heavy truck and industrial markets of North America, today announced that it has reached an agreement with its first and second lien debt holders to restructure through a prearranged filing under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code. The filing was made in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware.

Under the prearranged restructuring, FormTech has entered into a binding, firm, going concern asset purchase agreement with a newly formed subsidiary of HHI Holdings, LLC (“HHI”), the largest independent manufacturer of forged parts for the North American automotive industry, to sell its assets to HHI under a court-supervised sale process. Prior to the Chapter 11 filing, an affiliate of HHI acquired voting control of FormTech’s senior secured debt, and HHI and FormTech reached an agreement regarding the going concern sale with the holders of FormTech’s first and second lien debt. HHI is a portfolio company of KPS Capital Partners, LP, a private equity firm with over $2.5 billion of committed capital focused on constructive investing in restructurings, turnarounds, and other special situations.

An affiliate of HHI has agreed to provide FormTech with a DIP financing facility to support going concern operations. Subject to court approval, the DIP credit facility will ensure that FormTech has sufficient liquidity to continue normal operations during the restructuring, including paying employees, supplying customers without interruption, and paying suppliers for goods and services provided after the filing.

Chris Jones, President of FormTech, said: “During the past several months, we have taken extensive steps to address the realities of the current automotive marketplace. While we have made significant progress it became apparent that the best path for FormTech, our employees, customers and vendors is a court-supervised restructuring and going concern sale. This process will ensure that customers are supplied in a full and timely manner.

“We believe that FormTech’s assets have a great future under HHI, one of the world’s best-capitalized forging companies, backed by a private equity fund with more than $2 billion of capital. The combination with a strategic buyer that is the leading company in the North American forging industry will lead to significant synergies. HHI’s CEO knows our Company well, as he ran and helped build many of our plants in a previous position. We are grateful for the support and confidence being given to us by HHI and KPS, including providing our DIP financing.”

The proposed going concern sale transaction, which is expected to be completed within 45 days, is subject to court approval. A sale process to seek higher and better offers from other interested parties will be pursued.

A. Jeffrey Zappone of CM&D Management Services, LLC has been engaged by FormTech as Chief Restructuring Officer. FormTech’s restructuring counsel is Strobl & Sharp P.C.
